WATER: Steps to Prevent Future Shortfall

Editor's Note: A state study panel on the water needs of southeastern New York finished work last month. This two-part series reviews its findings and recommendations for the 13 county region. The first part deals with the key to any regional water system: the New York City Water Supply System.

(First of 2 Articles)

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The historic differences between upstate and New York City—in this case, involving water—have been brought to the fore once again, this time by the recently released recommendations of the Temporary State Commission on the Water Supply Needs of Southeastern New York.

The Commission, created by an act of the Legislature in 1969, and staffed in the early part of 1970, went to work later that year on this question: "How can the water supply needs of southeastern New York be met in a timely and economical manner that is technically feasible and is economically, politically and environmentally acceptable?"

The answer, released by the commission in mid-March of this year, just prior to its official March 31 expiration date, was called "regionalism," consolidation of all water systems in the 13-county region under state control.

Special

The region includes Dutchess, Ulster, Rockland, Orange, Putnam, Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk Counties and New York City.

There has been a sort of "regionalism" in effect since the Water Control Act of 1905 forced New York City to sell water to counties along its transmission lines—Ulster, Westchester, Orange, Putnam—but it has been an uneasy arrangement with little satisfaction on either side.

Notes the commission, "Out of this mandated trade-off have arisen major areas of conflicts between New York City and its upstate customers, including disputes over water rates, per capita limitations and recognition of counties as municipalities.

The commission offers compelling reasons for its regional concept, noting that in 1970 the public water supply systems in the region supplies almost two billion gallons per day; 26 years from now, 2.5 billion would be needed and by the year 2020 almost three billion gallons would be needed, about 850 billion gallons a day less than the system can now produce.

The commission figures that if New York City were fully metered, some 240 million gallons a day would be saved and figures that with local individual potential of developing water supply systems at about 155 million, thus the region overall would be faced with a deficit of some 500 million gallons per day by the year 2020, which is only 46 years away. Regional construction would meet the shortfall.

The New York City water supply system with its 19 upstate reservoirs and its expertise in water management would be the backbone of any regional water supply system and in fact the commission acknowledges early in its report that "The New York City System is already a regional system."

The New York system controls almost 2,000 square miles of watershed in eight upstate counties with three major transmission aqueducts. In fact, the commission report specifically rules out expansion of the New York Water System itself into a regional system with New York City maintaining control.

Such an arrangement, the commission states, "falls drastically short in terms of political acceptability and accountability. The history of water supply in the region makes it highly unlikely that New York City will yield equal decision making voices to other counties in the region or that the upstate counties will yield to New York City ultimate authority over their water supply needs."

NEXT: Deadlock in Albany and the Commission is extended for a year as upstate and New York City sit down for some hard bargaining. Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Senator Jay E. Rolison Jr. commission members, give their views on the possible impact of the study on Ulster and Dutchess Counties.

Many Persons Hospitalized

Explosion Rocks East Side

NEW YORK (AP) — About 60 persons were injured today when an explosion, tentatively attributed to a gas accumulation in a commercial building, rocked the East Side of Manhattan not far from the United Nations.

Three Asian diplomatic missions in the neighborhood and hundreds of sleeping residents were shaken by the 6:58 a.m. explosion, which shattered windows for blocks around.

While firemen worked in the building, an anonymous caller telephoned police and said a bomb was set to go off in the building.

Fire Commissioner John O'Hagan cleared his men out as a precaution.

O'Hagan said 59 persons had been taken to hospitals. He said he saw about two dozen treated at the scene but did not know whether they were hospitalized afterwards.

The blast ripped the 26-story commercial structure and touched off a fire. But the injured persons were neighboring residents, principally the dazed occupants of Envoy Towers, a luxury apartment house adjoining the blast site.

O'Hagan said there were three possible causes of the blast — gas, inflammables or explosives — but told newsmen: "Evidence points to natural gas as the cause of the explosion."

He said a number of persons said they had smelled gas before the blast, but evidently no complaint was made.

He said there appeared to be no structural damage to the Envoy Towers building — "It's a matter of replacing windows for the most part," he said.

It was not known whether any persons were in the commercial building when the blast occurred.

The Envoy Towers, 300 E. 46th St., is the address of the Nepalese consulate general and the Nepalese U.N. Mission.

The severely damaged commercial building runs through the block between First and Second avenues to 45th Street.

The Indonesian and Laotian mission on East 45th Street were reported damaged by the force of the blast.

Bellevue Hospital, where 35 of the injured were taken, reported five persons seriously hurt with deep lacerations and bruises. The others were treated for lesser cuts and bruises and smoke inhalation, the hospital reported.

A resident of Envoy Towers, J. V. Hill, said he was awakened by the blast, which blew venetian blinds 25 feet across the room to an opposite wall and moved chairs and bookcases across the apartment.

"It sounded like an earthquake and I thought it was the end of the world," said Maurice M. DeWalt, a magazine editor who lives in a building across the street from the explosion.

Nixon Steps Up Public Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is charting a fresh public relations campaign to coincide with President Nixon's responses to a pair of subpoenas from impeachment and Watergate investigators.

Presidential appearances in sections of the country considered generally friendly to his cause — and possibly a new Watergate "white paper" — are cornerstones of the effort to shore up Nixon's sagging popularity and to blunt impeachment moves.

On Thursday, the deadline for an answer to the House Judiciary Committee's subpoena for 42 tape recorded conversations, Nixon is scheduled to address a regional economic council in Jackson, Miss.

Meanwhile, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. said the House Judiciary Committee's inquiry staff, of which he is a member, will begin presenting its impeachment evidence to the full committee on May 7.

Fish said the job is expected to take six weeks. He said the impeachment panel was aiming for a "target date of late June" for submitting its recommendations to the full House but added he didn't believe this was a realistic date.

"It is absolutely essential that the Judiciary Committee finish its work as soon as possible," Fish added.

On May 3, one day after a response is due on special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski's subpoena for tapes of 63 conversations, Nixon is to make a public appearance in Phoenix, Ariz.

Although White House spokesmen won't publicly disclose the President's plans, indications are mounting that Nixon will stop short of supplying the House committee with all the subpoenaed material. One aide has said some of the conversations were never recorded and that others dealt with national security matters.

Rebuttal witness continues testimony in Mitchell-Stans trial. Jury expected to get case this week. Story Page 18.

According to reliable reports, the public relations campaign is intended to convince Americans that Nixon's response to the committee request is, in the words of one official, "comprehensive and conclusive."

In recent days, Nixon aides reportedly have been completing transcripts of the subpoenaed tapes and working on a lengthy document that White House officials contend will prove the President's innocence of any Watergate wrongdoing.

Whether the document will be released publicly, or merely turned over to the committee, has not been disclosed.

Meanwhile, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., told a nationwide television audience that he continued "to see reluctance, a dragging of feet, almost what might be considered a hindrance of justice" in White House failure to relinquish tapes sought by the House committee or the special prosecutor.

Percy, interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program also said he would not be satisfied if Nixon turned over edited transcripts of the conversations instead of the actual tapes.

Meanwhile, it was reported John Ehrlichman has admitted to Senate Watergate committee investigators that he briefed President Nixon on an audit of former Democratic party chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien's tax returns.

This was disclosed in a memo sent to members of the committee April 1 by its assistant chief counsel Terry Lenzner. The Associated Press has obtained access to the memo.

Lenzner's memo also discloses that committee investigators still are pursuing the theory that the original Watergate break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters may have been motivated by concern that O'Brien knew of a $100,000 campaign contribution from Howard Hughes. The Hughes money was given President Nixon's close friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo in two installments in 1969 and 1970.

At the time of the break-in, O'Brien was serving as an unpaid consultant for the Hughes interests. He had previously been paid for this work and it is not clear how much he was doing for Hughes while serving as Democratic chairman.

Students Heckle Sen. Kennedy

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy met with Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev today after running into confusion, embarrassment and some heckling when he tried a U.S.-style campus speech at a Russian university.

Soviet translators changed key sections of the Massachusetts Democrat's comments at Moscow State University and a college official tried to cut the remarks short by saying Kennedy was ill.

A jovial, gregarious Brezhnev met Kennedy, his wife, Joan, and their two children, Kara, 13, and Ted Jr., 12, at the Kremlin this morning, however, with smiles and handshakes.

"We'll talk about whatever he wants to talk about," Brezhnev told newsmen before taking Kennedy and his family into his study.

Brezhnev handed Kennedy an autographed picture of himself, causing Kara to ask if she could have one too. Brezhnev went right to his desk and signed another photo despite the senator's smiling protestations.

Kennedy's visit to the Soviet Union was the last stop on a three-nation, fact-finding tour of Eastern Europe. He previously visited Romania and Yugoslavia.

He told students at the university Sunday he believed a "magnanimous action" by the Kremlin in easing emigration barriers would spur Congress to grant the Soviet Union trade concessions.

After the speech, the first by a major U.S. politician at the college, he tried to poll the audience of 600 on various issues. "This is something I man at the front to yell out in Russian. That's an unfair question. That's provocative."

A middle-aged woman then shouted at Kennedy in English, "That depends on the international situation."

Kennedy took the interruptions with good humor and did not appear shaken.

After 20 minutes of polling and questions, a university official suddenly announced an end to the meeting because aides for a copy of his speech.

Kennedy was "not feeling well." Kennedy retorted, "I feel fine," a surprised Kennedy retorted.

The senator went on to make a few other remarks before returning to his seat. He then quickly walked to a side exit, accompanied by aides, security guards and university officials.

Despite the confusion, the audience applauded Kennedy enthusiastically as he left and several young people asked him to return because aides for a copy of his speech.

Contest for Mount Hermon

More Golan Heights Battles

By The Associated Press

Artillery fire pounded strategic Mt. Hermon today and fighting erupted along the Golan Heights front. The Syrian command reported it was hitting Israeli antiaircraft missile bases that were front and drove off one Syrian "moved up to forward positions air raider."

The Syrians claimed their artillery and tanks had "inflicted heavy losses on enemy military installations, concentration points, and antitank missile bases."

Israel reported artillery fire against the Mt. Hermon peak, where Israeli forces have been fortifying a new position for the past 10 days, had resumed after a night lull.

A spokesman for Israel's military command denied a report by unofficial sources in Lebanon that Israeli soldiers had taken a Lebanese hilltop Sunday in the fight for control of the mountain. The sources had identified the hill as Shahr, on a southwest slope of the mountain. The military command in Tel Aviv reported that in air activity Sunday, the Israeli air force had pounded Syrian emplacements six miles behind the front and drove off one Syrian air raider.

Egypt has refused to meet with Libya and Syria at a session of the People's Council of the Federation of Arab Republics, the Cairo newspaper Al-Akhar reported today.

No reason was given for the refusal of Egyptian members of the federation parliament to go to Libya for the meeting, but there was speculation that it was a protest against last Thursday's attack on the Military Technical Academy in Cairo. Egyptian officials have lied the attack, in which 11 persons were killed, was inspired by Libya.

In an interview published by the New York Times today,

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was quoted as saying he would welcome arms talks with wounded and two observation posts were blown up.

Following a policy speech last Thursday, in which Sadat said Egypt would diversify its weapons sources, the president was quoted by the Times as saying, "I assure you we are already in action."

He declined to say what country discussions or deals are under way.

In Washington officials of the State Department said the United States can be expected to start a major economic aid program with Egypt in coming months but indicated there are no plans to supply Egypt with arms.

Both Israeli and Syrian air forces were reported in action Sunday.

A Syrian communique reported Syrian forces battled the Israelis at 10 points in the Golan Heights and the Mt. Hermon area Sunday. It claimed a number of Israelis were killed or wounded and two observation posts were blown up.

Mt. Hermon straddles the Lebanese-Syrian border and is just north of the Israeli panhandle, giving the army that controls it a bird's eye view of the opposing armies on the Golan Heights, southeast Syria, including Damascus, and the villages in southern Lebanon from which Israeli claims Palestinian guerrillas raid northern Israel.

In another Middle East development, the central committee of Israel's ruling Labor party decided to form a new government to replace Premier Golda Meir's cabinet instead of calling an election. It scheduled another meeting today to elect a successor to Mrs. Meir, who resigned two weeks ago amid renewed criticism of Israel's setbacks at the start of the October war.

Consumers Hit Central Hudson On Fuel Hike Cost Adjustments

NEW YORK CITY

Representatives of Ulster County consumers groups, at a special public hearing by the Public Service Commission in New York City recently, demanded a rollback of the cost adjustment allowances allowed utilities such as Central Hudson for the increased cost of fuel.

Calling the cost adjustments a "fail-safe" against higher fuel prices for the utilities, the Irate Consumers of Ulster County, represented by Martha Walter, asked, "How many businesses or industries are blessed with a built in protection against rising operating costs as are the utilities?"

"Why should Central Hudson try to search for cheaper fuel supplies when they are guaranteed that their costs would be reimbursed no matter how high they are?" asked the Irate Consumers.

"It seems as though the consumer, the public, is expected to bear the complete inconvenience and deprivation in order to maintain the unbroken flow of profits for the monopolies," the statement said.

A plan by the utilities to spread out the price increase of owners of all electric homes to all electricity users was decided by the consumers as another "fail-safe" plan for the utilities and a "blatant attempt to pit one group of consumers against another."

Both the Irate Consumers and the Concerned Consumers of Lower Ulster County were represented in New York City. The next meeting of the Irate Consumers will be Friday, April 26, at 8 p. m. at the Heritage Savings Bank on Wall Street, Kingston.

Kimpel Backs Wilson Campaign Bill

MIDDLETOWN spending law but Kimpel thinks election and primary campaigns should be tougher in the pre-primary campaign stage. Helmut Kimpel has thrown his full support behind Gov. Wilson's bill would limit campaign spending in general from any one source. The bill was proposed April 15 as a compromise between proposals in the Assembly and the State Senate.

I am fully in accord with Gov.

Bell Bill on Camps Clears Assembly

ALBANY (U.P.) Bell explained, "How- ever, a waiver could be granted only where an application is accompanied by written certification of the local health officer that it would present no hazard to public health."

Sponsored by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) the legislation will allow an official issuing a permit to waive a requirement of the Sanitary Code setting a minimum standard of more than 20 square feet of floor space per camper in the camp's sleeping quarters.

"This bill is designed to permit many children's overnight camps, which might otherwise have to close because they are unable to meet the space requirements, to continue to operations, Community Chests and other voluntary services, yet, even combining this with a charge for campers, many are unable to make ends meet and may be forced to close. Allowing them to make more efficient use of available space, while at the same time taking every precaution to guard the health of the youngsters they serve, is a sensible way to keep them open."

It was also announced by Bell's office that a bill sponsored by Bell excluding small quantities of black powder from the definition of explosives has passed both houses of the Legislature and awaits Gov. Wilson's signature for final approval.

The measure exempts from labor law definitions five pounds or less of black powder provided it is used for antique firearms recreational purposes. Bell said the bill specifically prohibits the sale of the powder to minors. He urged all sportsmen and antique firearms enthusiasts to write to Gov. Wilson urging him to sign the bill.

Wilson's proposal because it will go a long way toward ending the wasteful and secretive fundraising tactics of past elections," Kimpel said.

"However, there must be some provision to control candidates from building up their campaign war chests before the candidate has been found qualified to run for office."

Slays Kin With Rifle

STONY POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—

A 35-year-old man walked into a bar in this Rockland County community Sunday night and fired a high-caliber bullet into his brother-in-law's head, killing him, state police reported.

The suspect, identified as Donald Solomon of Stony Point, was arrested for murder 20 minutes later in a bar four miles away in West Haverstraw.

Police said George Howard Merkle, 30, also of Stony Point, was using the pay telephone at Danny Boy's Bar on River Road when Solomon entered the bar carrying a 30-30 carbine.

Then, police said, Solomon calmly walked up to Merkle, his brother-in-law, fired one shot into the back of Merkle's head at point-blank range and fled.

Merkle was declared dead on the scene.

State police arrested Solomon at an unidentified bar in West Haverstraw without a struggle, and charged him with murder.

Health Care Legislation Hearings Start Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hearings will begin on Capitol Hill Wednesday on an issue affecting the well-being and the pocketbooks of all Americans—how to finance the nation's health care.

There is a complex array of proposals, but there are signs that chances for passage of ground-breaking legislation never have been better.

For the 25 million persons without any insurance at all and for millions of insured persons whose coverage is woefully inadequate, the stakes are high. These and other shortcomings of the present $94.1 billion a year health care financing system are acknowledged so widely that, whatever their differences, the twenty or so bills now before Congress all call for some change.

Even the health insurance industry, whose role in a new system will be a major issue at the hearings, supports legislation setting federal standards for a minimum level of insurance benefits.

"We feel that the (health insurance) business has demonstrated the capacity for full partnership with government in a national health insurance program," Leslie P. Henry, president of the Health Insurance Association of America, said in an April 5 letter to each member of Congress.

The Nixon administration, eager to accomplish something in the domestic legislation area, will present the leadoff testimony Wednesday before the House Ways and Means Committee.

A tentative schedule calls for testimony Thursday on a bill sponsored by Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and from major medical and hospital groups.

The battle to shape a bill will center around the administration's Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan (CHIP), substantially increased in its extent of coverage from a 1971 proposal, and a compromise bill submitted April 2 by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who chairs a Senate health subcommittee.

Kennedy earlier had pushed a far more extensive so called "health security" plan, and organized labor supported it. But he decided it stood no chance of passage and has abandoned it for the time being in favor of the compromise with Mills.

"We are willing and eager to testify on our proposal..." Health, Education and Welfare

Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said. "As a significant move toward the administration proposal, the Kennedy-Mills health insurance bill is a welcome development...an encouraging step forward."

The administration and Kennedy-Mills plans each would cost the taxpayers at least an additional $6 billion a year. Each would represent an annual cost of about $40 billion, most of it from the federal government, some from the states and some from the private insurance sector.

Many elements of the two plans are similar. Each seeks to make some form of health insurance available to everyone. Each would protect against the catastrophic cost of major illnesses. Under the Kennedy-Mills plan, no family would pay more than $1,000 in medical bills in one year; under the administration plan, no more than $1,500.

But important differences exist. Insurance coverage would be compulsory for individuals under the Kennedy-Mills bill. Although employers would have to offer health insurance under the administration plan, individual participation would be optional.

Private insurance companies would collect the premiums and administer the administration plan. They would have a more restrictive role under the Kennedy-Mills plan, which would be administered through the Social Security system. Payroll taxes would be increased with the Kennedy-Mills approach.

One complication is the fact that all remaining wage-price controls expire April 30 unless Congress extends some of them, which is unlikely. The administration wants controls extended in the health industry. Otherwise, it fears, costs will increase so much that its health insurance proposal could be unworkable.

Humphrey Joins Ranks, Seeks Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has joined two other key Senate Democrats in calling for an income tax cut to offset the impact of inflation and "stimulate the economy through consumer demand."

The Minnesota Democrat urged Sunday that Congress enact a tax cut to help low- and middle-income families faced with steep living costs "in the midst of a recession."

Humphrey's tax cut proposal came after Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., had proposed taxes be cut by $5.9 billion, mainly through increasing the personal exemption on taxable income from $750 up to $825.

For a family of four, with taxable income of $8,000 to $12,000, the increased exemptions would mean a tax savings of about $106 at current tax rates. With taxable income of between $12,000 and $16,000, the same family of four would save about $115.

Meanwhile, President Nixon's chief domestic affairs adviser said the administration was not presently considering a tax cut. Kenneth R. Cole Jr., interviewed Sunday on the NBC program "Meet the Press," said that a tax decrease "at this particular point in time will inflame" inflation, rather than solve economic problems.

He repeated the administration's belief that the economy will begin to improve in the second half of the year.

Humphrey, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, also advocated creation of new public service jobs for the unemployed as well as a permanent agency to monitor and counter inflation.

Latest government figures show inflation is now running at a rate of more than 10 per cent annually. During the first three months of this year, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 14.5 per cent.

He urged greater global understanding, a less formal OAS structure and closer ties, but "not a common front against others."

He told the foreign delegates President Nixon was trying to raise U. S. assistance to food production programs in Latin America by 50 per cent. And in reference to the controversy over some U. S. businesses in Latin America, he pledged hemispheric harmony would take precedence over commercial interests.

Kissinger did not mention Cuba in his 30-minute speech Saturday. However the first tentative steps were taken to renew contacts with the Communist government. Members agreed their governments should be consulted about possible future involvement of Cuba in the organization. The conference already has marked the beginning of the end of 10 years of Cuban isolation as well as a turn in U. S. Latin American relations.

Both House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, have indicated they would support such a move to cut taxes unless there is a marked upturn in the economy soon.

Humphrey did not specify how the tax cut he favors should be put into effect.

'Not Ready Yet'... Kissinger

ATLANTA (UPI) — The United States is not ready yet, if it ever will be, to treat Fidel Castro as a good neighbor.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger indicated Sunday.

"We don't have any intention of restoring diplomatic relations with Cuba, and I don't expect this will be a big subject in the news after attending the opening sessions of the Organization of American States (OAS) conference."

There was expected to be a move among some of the 22 Latin American members of the OAS to endorse Argentina's call for lifting sanctions against Cuba.

Kissinger set the tone of the OAS conference at opening sessions during the weekend.

He repeated the administration's belief that the economy will begin to improve in the second half of the year.

Humphrey, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, also advocated creation of new public service jobs for the unemployed as well as a permanent agency to monitor and counter inflation.

Latest government figures show inflation is now running at a rate of more than 10 per cent annually. During the first three months of this year, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 14.5 per cent.

He urged greater global understanding, a less formal OAS structure and closer ties, but "not a common front against others."

He told the foreign delegates President Nixon was trying to raise U. S. assistance to food production programs in Latin America by 50 per cent. And in reference to the controversy over some U. S. businesses in Latin America, he pledged hemispheric harmony would take precedence over commercial interests.

Kissinger did not mention Cuba in his 30-minute speech Saturday. However the first tentative steps were taken to renew contacts with the Communist government. Members agreed their governments should be consulted about

Michelsen Wins in Colombia

BOGOTA (UPI) — Liberal party candidate Alfonso Lopez Michelsen piled up a landslide lead today to win Colombia's first "open-to-all" presidential election since 1946.

Lopez, 60, a law professor campaigning for moderate social and economic reforms, issued a victory statement shortly before midnight. Minutes later, the Conservative party said candidate Alvaro Gomez Hurtado, Lopez' leading rival, was drawing up a formal concession statement.

In his victory statement, Lopez offered to collaborate with Gomez and guaranteed the defeated Conservatives "the right to criticize the new government."

Lopez' victory became clear with only 40 per cent of the vote counted, giving him 1,197,019 ballots to Gomez' 647,950.

Latin America's first serious woman presidential candidate, Maria Eugenia Rojas, received only 228,765 votes on the populist ANAPO ticket. Communist-backed candidate Hernando Echeverri Mejia received 73,631 and Christian Democrat Hermes Duarte tallied only 1,332.

A spokesman for ANAPO said today the party would not recognize Lopez' victory until complete and official returns were in.

Political experts predicted Lopez would take only about 51 per cent of the votes once the ballots were counted in rural areas, where Gomez Conservatives traditionally have been strong. Lopez needed only a plurality to win.

The election, relatively peaceful in comparison to previous Colombian ballot-box violence, brought an end to a 1957 power-sharing arrangement by the Liberal and Conservative parties to rotate the presidency.

The two parties, which had made the agreement to end a decade of civil war in Colombia, declared this year's contest "free for all."

Conservative President Misael Pastrana Borrero promised Friday to hand over power for a four-year term to whichever party won.

Lopez was expected to make moderate changes — in his campaign he supported cautious land and tax reform and measures to reduce unemployment and distribute wealth.

He was heir to one of Colombia's most prominent political families. His father, Alfonso Lopez, was president 1934-38 and 1942-45. Many admirers considered his father the greatest Colombian politician of this century.

Escapees Are Charged

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Winnebago county authorities said late Sunday they had issued first-degree murder warrants against two Michigan prison escapees in the death of a 33-year-old mother of five.

Charlene Beaudin of Marquette, Mich., was shot to death near early Sunday as she tried to flee two men who had forced her and a young man to drive about 200 miles from Upper Michigan, police said.

The young man managed to escape when Mrs. Beaudin was shot, said Lt. William Fuller of the Winnebago County sheriff's department.

Named in the warrants were Gordon Stockeneur, 26, of Lansing, Mich., and Joseph Molinari, 29, of Jackson, Mich. A statewide alert for the two issued in Wisconsin earlier said they had escaped Saturday from a Michigan prison farm at Marquette.

Fuller said Klingemaier had stated that one of the two men who abducted him fitted the description of one of the prison escapees.

Authorities earlier said they were combing "every road and farmhouse" in the area for the two men. And Winnebago County Sheriff Marvin Peppier said Michigan authorities and the FBI were aiding in the hunt for the two men, who were described as "armed and extremely dangerous."

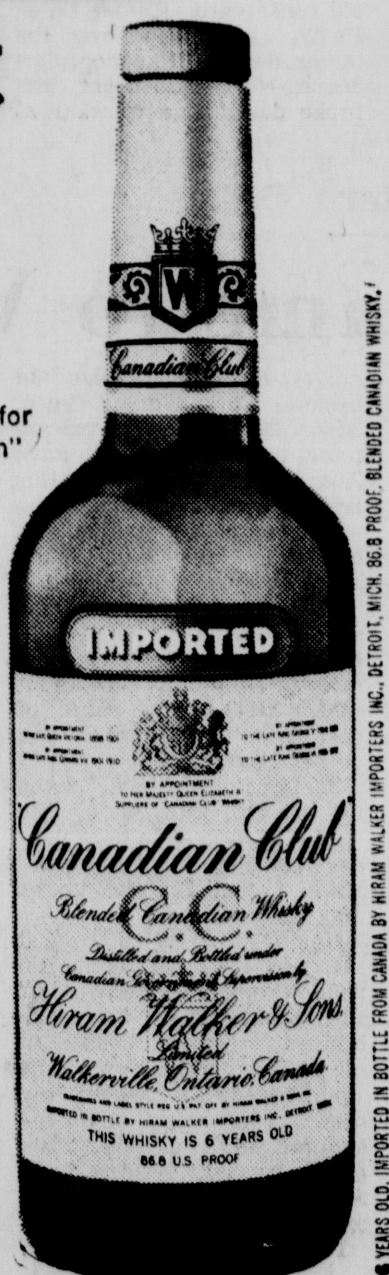

The statewide alert said Stockeneur was serving 2½ to four years for felonious assault and Molinari was serving one to two years for attempted felonious assault.

Michigan State Police said Mrs. Beaudin's husband, James, had reported her miss-

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 22, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Former Treasury Secretary John Connally tried to head off a Justice Department investigation of Jake Jacobsen, the dairy lobbyist, who has now confessed to the Watergate prosecutors that he delivered a $10,000 pay-off to Connally from the dairy industry.

We have established that Connally last year telephoned

Richard Kleindienst, then the attorney general, and asked him to intervene in the Jacobsen case.

The Justice Department, nevertheless, went ahead with a double-barreled investigation of Jacobsen's role in the milk scandal and in an unrelated savings-and-loan case. Jacobsen was called before a grand jury where he swore Connally had rejected the $10,000. The dairy lobbyist testified that he had stashed the money in a safe deposit box and hadn't touched it until the FBI opened the box. The FBI found evidence to the contrary and the Watergate prosecutors began preparing a case against Jacobsen for perjury. Connally, inevitably, became involved in the investigation. This was about the time that Archibald Cox was fired as the special Watergate prosecutor. Suddenly, Connally began pulling strings to name Cox's successor. Connally's choice was Leon Jaworski, whom President Nixon had once met at a party for Texas dignitaries at Connally's ranch.

White House sources tell us that Connally urged Jaworski's appointment upon the President. Connally also spoke to the President's staff chief, Alexander Haig, about Jaworski.

The appointment of Jaworski, therefore, put Connally in the happy position of helping to choose the special prosecutor who would now investigate him. But if Connally expected a whitewash, he had misjudged Jaworski's character.

The new special prosecutor, a man of solid integrity, immediately removed himself from all decisions affecting his friend Connally. In a private memo to Deputy Prosecutor Henry Ruth, Jaworski gave his deputy responsibility for the milk case, with full authority to direct the investigation of Connally.

On February 6, Jacobsen was indicted in the savings-and-loan case. Two weeks later, he was indicted again for lying to the grand jury about the $10,000.

This confronted Jacobsen, say his friends in Texas, with an agonizing human dilemma. He considered Connally probably his best friend and might even have been willing to go to prison for him. But Jacobsen's wife is in poor health and needs his constant attention.

He was forced to choose, we were told, between his wife and his best friend. After considerable soul wrenching, he offered to cooperate with the prosecutors in a bid for leniency.

He told them he had delivered the $10,000 to Connally at the Treasury Department. After the milk scandal broke into the headlines, Connally returned upon a cover story, Jacobsen said. Jacobsen promised to say he had not delivered the $10,000 to Connally but had kept it in a safe deposit box.

Later, Connally brought a second $10,000 bundle to exchange for the first, because he became apprehensive that the first bills could be traced, Jacobsen told the prosecutors.

Connally has flatly denied Jacobsen's story. He told us that Jacobsen told the truth the first time. We couldn't reach Connally for comment on the latest developments related in this column.

Troubles With Greece

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Highly confidential correspondence between a powerful new figure in the Greek military dictatorship and President Muammar Qaddafi, the fanatical anti-Western dictator of Libya, has raised grave alarm here over rapidly deteriorating relations between Greece and its traditional Western allies, especially the United States.

The secret correspondence is between Qaddafi and Col. Manousogiannakis, a strongman in one wing of Greece's new military dictatorship which took power last November in a xenophobic coup d'etat. But the liaison began even before the overthrow of former dictator George Papadopoulos.

It dramatizes this fear: the new military clique now in power in Athens is searching for radical transformation of Greece's postwar alliance with the West in a form that could have dangerous implications for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), West's defense of the eastern Mediterranean Sea.

For example, the long negotiations with Greece for home-portioning a U.S. carrier near Athens have been virtually abandoned because of impossible new demands from the new military junta, nominally led by Brig. Gen. Dimitrios Ioannidis. Although the U.S. Navy claims these negotiations will eventually succeed, State Department realists are certain that the ugly turn in U.S.-Greek relations has ended any such possibility. The new junta surely agrees. Otherwise, it would hardly be demanding costly new military grant aid as its price. Grant aid was triumphantly ended more than one year ago by Papadopoulos, and chances of Congress voting such aid, even if requested by President Nixon, are zero today.

Thus, some political analysts are convinced that the colonels are looking for new political arrangements. The secret correspondence between Qaddafi and Col. Manousogiannakis, leader of the Qaddafiite faction in the junta, points toward one possible direction. Qaddafi was the single most influential Arab leader who refused to go along with lifting the anti-U.S. oil boycott 10 days ago.

The plainly anti-American character of the new regime, moreover, is becoming clear in other ways. Spyridon Tetenes, the Greek foreign minister and a bureaucratic puppet, stunned Westerners this week when he blamed the failure of the carrier home-portioning deal on President Nixon's weakness under impeachment proceedings.

Indeed, signs of the major transformation now going on between Athens and Washington are unavoidable. Here for consultations, U.S. Ambassador Henry Tasca is mincing no words in private talks with high officials of the State Department. For the past several years, Tasca has been under non-stop political charges of playing the Papadopoulos game, pretending a return to parliamentary rule was just around the corner.

Now Tasca is privately warning in unambiguous terms that the present deterioration carries ominous risks for both NATO and the U.S. Other observers flatly predict that Greek intellectuals and students, possibly joined by senior military officers shocked by the junta's primitive terror tactics, may move to open revolt soon.

The recent arrest of George Mavros, a top leader of the old conservative Center Union Party, went beyond even the terror days of Papadopoulos. Mavros' front door was broke down by a crowd at midnight and he was sent to the notorious prison camp on the island of Yiaros, once closed by Papadopoulos as a result of an international campaign led by the Red Cross.

Potentially far worse, however, is growing anger against the regime by Greek workers and the middle class. Inflation is now approaching an annual rate of 50 per cent, a factor that threatens political revival of long-dormant Marxist parties knocked out of action 25 years ago by Harry Truman's Greek-Turkish aid program.

The potential danger of a Communist revival was ridiculed by the State Department during the seven years the Papadopoulos dictatorship was wooed by President Nixon. Now, however, high officials here say privately that a combination of economic chaos plus the political chaos of military dictatorship makes a radical leftward turn toward Communism a live possibility.

Either xenophobic nationalism, Qaddafi-style, or Communism would pose deadly alternatives to President Nixon and NATO. Yet, that menace is greater today than at any time since the 1967 overthrow of parliamentary government.

He told them he had delivered the $10,000 to Connally at the Treasury Department. After the milk scandal broke into the headlines, Connally returned upon a cover story, Jacobsen said. Jacobsen promised to say he had not delivered the $10,000 to Connally but had kept it in a safe deposit box.

Look me in the eye," she whispered. I tried. I tried hard. But my eyes kept turning away. "I thought so," she said. "He touches himself." I wasn't sure what it meant, but I suspected. "You're weak and thin," she said. "You'll get softening of the brain." My mother looked frightened.

"Besides," Aunt Jenny said, "it's a mortal sin. Don't you send them to confession?" "Yes," my mother said. "Yes, Aunt Jenny." "Then he should be manly and confess it. Do you tell the priest.?" I shook my head no. "Has the cat got your tongue?" More shaking of head. I was studying my shoes. Her chest was rising and falling with excitement. The gold watch flickered on and off.

"Speak!" she shrieked. "Okay," I shouted. "say something in French, you old biddy!" I beat my mother to the bathroom and locked it. Hours later, I unlocked it for my father. I was sobbing, but he had to do what he had to do. . . .

College Expenses

The soaring cost of education has put a college degree out of sight for many American youth.

The cost of going to a good, private American college for four years is estimated at about $24,000. The family with two or three college age children could pay as much as $48,000 to $72,000 to give them a four-year college education.

These statistics released recently by the College Entrance Examination Board at Princeton, N. J., clearly indicated that the cost of college education has gone well beyond the middle-income family's ability to pay.

Inflation, which has boosted the cost of virtually everything has made the dream of going to college a financial nightmare for many.

The soaring college costs have put the middle-income families in a bind, because in many instances they are judged not poor enough to qualify for scholarships.

However, many studies in recent years have stressed the importance of a college education, stating that it is probably among the most important investments a person will make in his lifetime.

Selection of a college is referred to as a key way to cut costs. The least expensive way to get a college education is to live at home and attend a free or low-tuition college or two-year junior college.

The statistics say that the most expensive way to get an education is at a private university. Next is a state college out of a person's home state and third is a state college within the bounds of the state where a person lives. Savings by going to public rather than a private college have been estimated at between $2,000 to $3,000 each year.

Another difficulty today is that with the unemployment picture what it is, working your way through college is not as easy as it used to be.

Population and Food

A lifestyle grounded in abundance and comparative affluence makes it hard for Americans to grasp the inescapable relationship between population and food supply in the world's poor nations. Such understanding is of the greatest importance as we enter an era which will be marked by more widespread hunger than at any time in the immediate past, and even by starvation on a large scale.

A Population Reference Bureau bulletin on Pakistan provides graphic illustrations of the problem which faces nations encompassing a third of all the globe's people. The problem is that population is outracing food production. In Pakistan's case, a massive family planning program has failed to halt this trend.

The bulletin from the Population Reference Bureau tells us: "Far from declining, the annual growth rate apparently increased to 3.5 per cent, and (in the decade since 1961), 22 million people were added to the population—an increment equal to the total population of Pakistan in 1925 or to the present population of Canada"

The crucial factor involved is that the capacity to feed the population has not increased accordingly. Says the PRB bulletin: "During the past 71 years the population of present-day Pakistan has about quadrupled; population density has risen from 53 to 209 people per square mile. Thus even though gross acreage under cultivation has increased 37 per cent — from over 37 million acres in 1951 to nearly 48 million in 1970 — the arable land available per rural inhabitant has decreased from 1.35 to 0.99 acres. This partly explains why Pakistan is now suffering a food deficit."

Over here we worry about excessive population's impact on our way of life. In the poor nations the worry is that people in large numbers will starve to death. It is at this level of reality that one must consider their plight.

When Aunt Jenny Came to Visit

No, I could not go out. Could not. My mother said so. At the age of nine, a boy does not argue. He pulls his pants up and looks sullen. I could not go out because Aunt Jenny was coming. So I stood at the front window watching the kids play in the street.

Willy Stahl and Gillie Newell and Tom Kerrigan crouched between the sidewalk and the curb. They were knocking marbles out of a circle. The Mansmans and Dolan rode bikes in slow figure eights, talking at the top of their lungs.

That Saturday was a make-believe day. The sky was cold blue between charcoal clouds. It was spring, but the snow was still trying. Now and then, the wind paused to catch its breath. Then it took a fistful of confetti and whirled it between the houses and the empty back trees.

The three of us had to dust while mamma baked. All because of Aunt Jenny. Adele was doing the piano, running the rag up and down the keys. Johnny finished the claw legs on the dining room table, and my mother told him to do the colored lampshade, too.

He said it was too high. She made him take his shoes off and stand on a chair. He was mad enough to cry, but he held back to get even with her. She yelled in from the kitchen to get washed and dressed quick. I turned away from the window and said we couldn't be quick if Adele got in the bathroom first.

Johnny and I shined our shoes on the toilet seat. We put vaseline on our hair and slicked it. Mamma was sticking broom whisks in a cake and tying a big pink bow in Adele's ratty hair to go with the starched pink dress. When she walked, the dress seemed separate from her.

Mamma fixed her hair, finished making the potato salad and slicing the ham. Then came the knock on the door. It was loud, like a policeman. Mamma threw her arms around Aunt Jenny. They kissed and rocked.

She wasn't my Aunt Jenny. I tried to remember — she was mamma's mother's maiden sister. Everybody said she was a maiden; she was the oldest maiden I ever saw. She scared the hell out of everybody. My father used to go to Lucid's saloon when the maiden was due.

She had a face like Bismarck. The whole thing had melted. She wore a heavy woolen skirt bunched behind her, and a shirred shirtwaist with a gold watch over her gigantic heart.

Aunt Jenny wore glasses that pinched the nose. She never laughed, and she talked like a judge. Twice a year, she came to our house with a big bag. In it was some bolt cloth, the makings of a dress for my mother, a dress for Adele, and yellow pongee shirts for Johnny and me.

When she sat in the morris chair, we had to stand polite and silent in front of her. When she turned her face, we had to kiss her on the cheekbone. We always said, "Thank you, Aunt Jenny," before she opened the bag.

Sometimes, she was the talk of the family. She read and spoke French, she had been to Europe many times. Aunt Jenny was a private tutor to rich kids on Fifth Avenue in New York. Our Irish was neither late curtain nor shanty. We had shades on rollers. But Aunt Jenny spoke French.

"The girl looks piqued," she said as she caught her breath. My mother was afraid of missing anything her aunt said. "Get her a bottle of beef, iron, and wine. It will do her good."

She studied Johnny. "Stand up straight, little man," she said. "I teach little boys your age and they study algebra." Well, I thought, she knows another language.

Her brown eyes glittered at me, and I thought of ice on window panes. "Too pale," she said. "Does he touch himself?" Mamma looked at me. "Tell Aunt Jenny," she commanded. I shook my head. Aunt Jenny gave me a small smile of pity. "The boy," she said, "is lying. Look how pale he is. He must be touching himself."

I shook my head vigorously.

Two Killed in Dutchess

FISHKILL — Two Dutchess County residents were killed Saturday night when their cars collided head-on on Route 52 near Fishkill, state police said.

Troopers said Pearl H. Bailey, 51, of Stormville and Richard G. Smith, 23, of Hopewell Junction were pronounced dead at the scene after the woman's car swerved into the path of Smith's car.

Meanwhile, two youths were hospitalized and two others were slightly injured when the car in which they were riding overturned on Libertyville Road in the Town of New Paltz late Saturday night. Police said the youths were trapped in the car and had to be extricated by the New Paltz Fire Department and the New Paltz Rescue Squad.

Hospitalized following the crash were Michael Scott, 18, of Merrick, N. Y., and Steven Benson, 18, of Walton, Mass. Both were listed in satisfactory condition today at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie. Police said the driver, Louis Schultheis, 18, of Gouldsboro, Pa., and another passenger, James Lemming, 17, of Marion, Ind., both suffered minor injuries in the crash and did not require hospital treatment.

The car was going south on Libertyville Road, police said, when Schultheis lost control of the vehicle and it overturned pinning the occupants inside.

Elsewhere, Rudolph Mauro Jr., 26, of P. O. Box 134, Glasco, was injured early Sunday when his car ran off Route 28 in the Town of Kingston and slammed into a telephone booth and a utility pole. The telephone booth was demolished, according to authorities.

Mauro was listed in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Ulster County Sheriff's deputies ticketed Mauro for speed not reasonable or prudent and for failure to use the designated traffic lane. The mishap occurred at about 2 a. m. near the Route 28 Dairy Queen.

Publishers To Honor Ed Sullivan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newspaper publishers and editors will honor Ed Sullivan, himself a former newspaperman, and hear addresses by Vice President Gerald Ford and Treasury Secretary-designate William E. Simon during a week long convention that begins today.

Delegates to the 88th annual American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) convention, for which nearly 1,400 publishers and editors have registered, were invited to a welcoming breakfast hosted by United Press International before the formal opening of the meeting.

Washington news editor Ronald E. Cohen and Richard H. Grawald, editor for Europe, Africa and the Middle East at UPI's European news center in Brussels were scheduled speakers at the breakfast.

Ford accepted an invitation to address the annual Associated Press luncheon later in the day.

Simon will be the final convention speaker Thursday following election of officers for 1974-75. Harold W. Anderson of the Omaha World-Herald is expected to be elected chairman to succeed Davis Taylor of the Boston Globe. Stanford Smith, ANPA president and general manager, will continue in office.

Skylab IV astronauts—Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson, and William R. Pogue—will answer questions Wednesday following a film presentation of their 84 days in space.

Other speakers are Anne Armstrong, counselor to President Nixon, who will speak on the American Bicentennial, and Donald C. Alexander, commissioner of Internal Revenue, who will speak on current trends in tax administration.

Drug Possession Charged

KINGSTON — Two men were charged today with drug possession early today by state police in unrelated incidents at the Route 28 traffic circle and in Phoenixia.

Troopers G. R. Van Allen and J. C. Mikesch charged Christopher P. Chafouleas, 26, of Phoenix, Ariz., formerly of Kingston, with three counts of possession of a controlled substance in the fifth degree after quantities of marijuana, hashish and cocaine were found in his vehicle during a routine traffic check at about 1:15 a. m. at the traffic circle. Chafouleas was initially charged with driving while his New York State license was revoked.

Police said about a half-pound of marijuana, a quarter-ounce of hashish and 7/10 ounce of cocaine were allegedly found. Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Chafouleas was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail pending a re-arrest in court Wednesday.

A short time later, troopers Mikesch and Van Allen, responding to a complaint of a prowler at a Phoenixia residence, arrested Robert J. Hunter, 24, of San Francisco, Calif., for being an unlicensed operator and for possession of a quantity of marijuana. He was charged with possession of a controlled substance in the seventh degree.

Arraigned before Olive Town Justice Alfred Higley, Hunter pleaded innocent to the drug charge and was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $250 bail to await a re-arrest in court at a later date. Hunter pleaded guilty to the traffic charge and was confined in jail for 15 days in lieu of payment of a $50 fine.

Mackell Gets Six Months

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas J. Mackell was sentenced today to six months in jail on his conviction March 2 of obstructing prosecution of a get-rich-quick scheme operator.

The sentence was imposed by Supreme Court Justice John M. Murtagh in a special term of Queens Supreme Court in Long Island City.

Prior to the sentencing, Mackell protested his innocence, denying that he was guilty of any criminal act concerning the handling of the prosecution of Joseph Ferdinand, architect of the get-rich-quick scheme in which members of Mackell's staff had invested.

100 Chickens Roasted in Fire

TOWN OF ESOPUS — An estimated 100 chickens were roasted to death early today when fire of undetermined origin broke out in a large chicken coop where they were housed on Floyd Ackert Road in the Town of Esopus.

About 36 men from the Esopus Fire Department rushed to the scene shortly after 6 a. m. The chicken coop, owned by James Petrizzo, was extensively involved in flames on arrival, according to Esopus Fire Chief Ronald Bruck.

Firemen were able to save about half of the chicken coop, Bruck said, but the chickens inside were killed.

Elsewhere, city firemen doused a mattress fire of incendiary origin in a vacant brick building at 22 Post Street Sunday afternoon. No damage was reported to the structure, firemen said. An investigation of the blaze has been requested.

Meanwhile, brush and dump fires kept volunteers busy throughout the county Sunday as 13 separate brush fires and two dump fires—in Binewater and the Town of Ulster—were reported.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened broadly lower in the New York Stock Exchange today. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones Industrial average had fallen 1.17 to 858.73 a few minutes after the opening. Declines outnumbered advances by about two-to-one, among the 421 stocks crossing the tape.

Sour first quarter economic statistics and the spread of the 10 1/2 per cent prime lending rate to more of the nation's biggest banks ended a three-day rally on Friday. The Dow dropped 10.02 to 859.90.

Service Week Proposal

WASHINGTON, D. C. Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.), is backing a proposal setting aside one week in eight for "constituent service."

The proposal would give members of the House one week in every second month to devote entirely to their congressional districts.

"This system would give each congressman more of an opportunity to get together with his constituents, to provide a better exchange of ideas," Gilman said. "It would provide a more flexible schedule for public appearances, meetings, office hours and other activities that provide the all-important bridge between the people and their representative."

Gilman joined 44 other members of the House in making the recommendation for "Constituent Service Week" to House Speaker Carl Albert.

A similar idea has also been suggested in the Senate, Gilman noted.

Gilman Supports Reform

WASHINGTON, D. C. Reform of the Social Security payroll tax to reduce the burden on the wage earner and increase the maximum taxable income has been supported by Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.).

The proposal, which Gilman co-sponsored in the House would increase from $13,200 to $25,000 the income level above which no Social Security taxes are withheld from a worker's pay.

It would also reduce the Social Security tax rate from its present level of 5.85 per cent to 3.9 per cent.

This legislation would put more money back into the hands of those who need it most—the low and middle income members of our work force. By expanding the number of people participating in the Social Security program, it would lessen the burden on each of them individually," Gilman said.

Gilman said the passage of this legislation would stimulate the national economy by putting cash back into the hands of the working man and woman. "As this buying power begins to flow through the economy, it should produce a general upturn," Gilman said.

Candidate Heading Drive

WOODSTOCK Beverly Britting, candidate for the Ontario School Board of Education, is heading a voter registration drive in the district which she says is supported by the results of a recent study she conducted.

Mrs. Britting notes that "77 per cent of the voting age population in Ulster County are registered voters," but that fewer than 25 per cent town of Woodstock voters were registered for school elections. She estimates that fewer than 20 per cent actually vote, noting that last year in the Ontario School District, 2,682 persons were registered but that only 1,961 votes were cast.

Several factors contribute to the fact that 8 out of 10 eligible voters do not vote in school elections, she said. Mrs. Britting suggests that one important cause is the requirement for separate school registration. This is a duplication of effort by the voter and creates a particular hardship for the senior citizen and for those who live where transportation may be a problem. It also creates confusion in the minds of some. It is not unusual for people to think that they are registered for school election only to find that they are not.

In August 1973, Mrs. Britting in a letter to the Ontario Board of Education, suggested some needed changes in election procedures. Although some improvements have been made, much remains to be done. In the meanwhile, registration drives are the best means of increasing citizen participation.

In the center, a player wearing a white jersey with "NEW YORK" and the number "22" is leaping into the air, his arms extended towards a basketball that is suspended in the upper left. To his right, two other players are also in mid-air, their bodies angled as they attempt to block or steal the ball. The player closest to the center player is wearing a light-colored jersey, while the one further right is in a darker jersey. The background is a dense, out-of-focus crowd of spectators, creating a sense of a high-stakes, high-energy event. The lighting is bright, highlighting the players against the darker background.

Elder Hesitates, Then Accepts

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — There's no longer any question about it.

"I will definitely accept an invitation to the Masters and I will definitely play in the Masters," Lee Elder told The Associated Press in the wake of his victory in the Monsanto Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

Elder's triumph, secured by a birdie on the fourth hole of a sudden-death playoff with England's Pete Oosterhuis, made him the first black ever eligible to compete in the famed event in Augusta, Ga. — until now an all-white affair.

For a while, Elder left things up in the air about accepting the invitation.

"It's a year away," he said. "I'll have to weigh that somewhat. This (a victory) has been a long time coming. I really don't want to be put on the spot as to yea or nay right now. I'll have to weigh it carefully."

"There's a lot of tournaments and a lot of playing to be done between now and then. Anything can happen," Elder said.

Moments later, Clifford Roberts, the man who runs the all-Invitational Masters, issued a statement saying: Elder definitely will be extended an invitation to the 1975 Masters.

"He has earned his invitation and we are very delighted he has done so," Roberts said. "That's fine," Elder said. "Tell Mr. Roberts I'll see him at the Masters."

Still later, however, he repeated that "I will have to weigh it carefully" and left the issue in doubt until telling The AP "I definitely will play in the Masters."

Elder is not the first black to win. Charley Sifford and Pete Brown both scored victories in regular tour events. But their triumphs came before the Masters had changed its rules to make all winners of regular tour tournaments eligible for inclusion in the Masters field. The UPI reported that the Monstano Open got almost as good a deal out of Elder's victory as the winner. The tournament was in serious trouble. Bracketed by the Masters and The Tournament of Champions, it drew only three of this year's top 21 winners — and none of the "big names."

Any other winner would not have attracted much attention. But the birdie putt Lee Elder made to win Sunday's playoff was a shot heard around the world.

Elder and Oosterhuis finished the regulation 72 holes at 274, 10 under par on the tight, 6,679-yard Pensacola Country Club course. Elder had a finishing 67, Oosterhuis 69.

Al Geiberger, with a 70-276, and Miller Barber and Ray Floyd, each 68-278, followed.

NO HORSES ELIGIBLE
ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — There won't be any horses running in the Belmont Stakes. The conditions of that classic event specify that it is for 3-year-old thoroughbreds. No 3-year-olds are horse. They are colts or fillies. At the age of 3 the thoroughbred becomes a horse or a mare.

Jo Ann Winner
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — At Augusta, the male Masters champion wears a green coat. At Dinah Shore's Winner's Circle, Jo Ann Prentice said she dressed in green "because that's all I had clean in my closet."

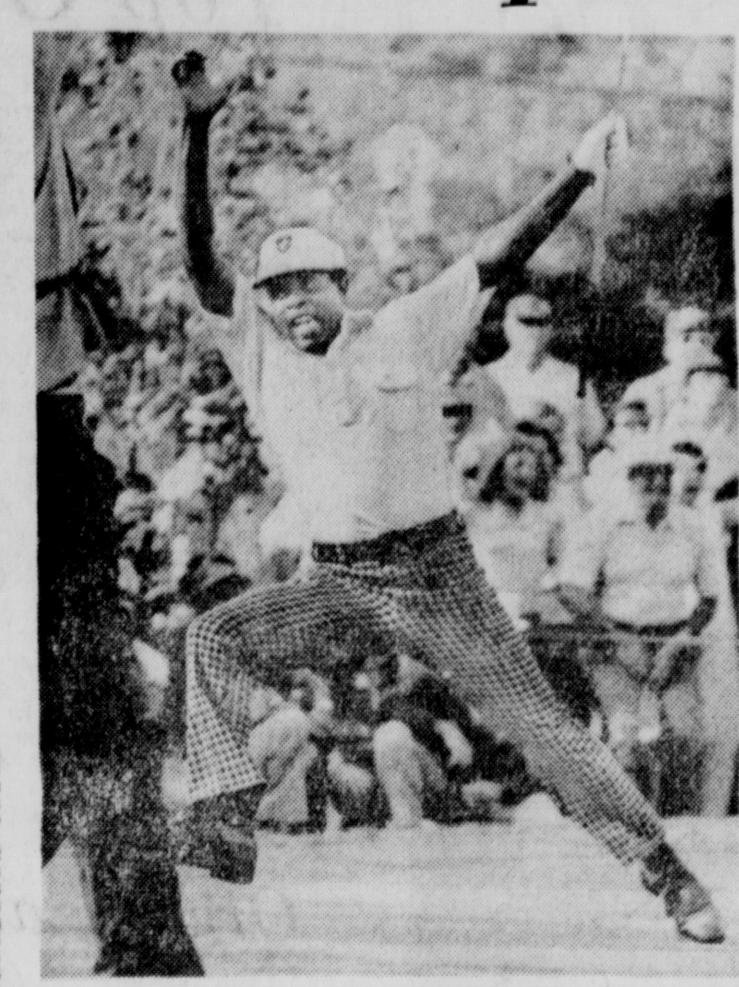

Jackie Pung, LPGA Hall-of-Famer from Hawaii, adorned Miss Prentice with green leis after the 41-year-old Alabamian "punched a little four-iron" from the tee to within four feet of the flag on the fourth playoff hole. Then she sank the birdie putt to defeat Jane Blalock for the $32,000 first prize.

The richest tournament in the history of women's golf, a total purse of $200,000, is considered by the gals as prestigious to them as the Masters is to the men.

Miss Blalock, the 1972 Winner's Circle champion when the first prize was $20,000, had birdied the 157-yard No. 17 on the tournament's 71st hole by hitting to within 18 inches of the flag.

That same hole on the Mission Hill's course came up as the fourth playoff hole and she followed Jo Ann's sensational shot by leaving herself about a 12-footer.

Sandra Haynie, the 54-hole leader, shot a 74, bogeying the 14th when she hit into water. She regained a share of the lead when Miss Prentice three-putted No. 17 from about 45 feet, missing about a three-foot putt. Miss Blalock birdied 18 with a six-foot putt and the trio, tied at one-over-par 289, returned to the 14th hole to start the sudden death playoff.

Miss Haynie was short on a six-foot putt for a bogey on the second playoff hole, leaving Jo Ann and Jane who had 73s to fight for the $14,500 difference as second place money of $21,000 and $14,000 for third was shared by the playoff losers.

Jo Ann's tee shot on the third playoff hole hit a three stake, becoming back into the fairway, and she scrambled to make par. Memory of her three-putt bogey earlier on 17 was still fresh in her mind.

Before the energy crisis hit us all in the gas tank, the VW 412 was right. Now it's more right than ever. With the nation's big gas guzzlers in disfavor, the 412 Wagon may be one of the few luxury wagons still around. For it gets a good 20 miles per gallon. How's that for a luxury wagon that also treats you to loads of space, plush seats, elegant carpeting, and a timed preheating system?

Fact is, it's the only luxury wagon with its combination of features, standard equipment, for only $4200.**

"For 60 Years — Kingston's Fashion Store for Men"

71 ALBANY AVENUE KINGSTON, N.Y.

Undaunted by weather, unmindful of callouses, absolutely fearless in the face of adversity, more than 100 walkers have already signed up for this year's Annual Bunion Parade, better known as the Zonta Walkathon, to be held Saturday, May 18, beginning at Kingston Plaza and preceding to Ulster Plaza. Zonta members are confident that more than 200 local business men, bankers, political figures will toe the mark. Even if it means walking in the rain, as was the case last year.

Nice rewards are in store for those who sign up as walkers; a delicious repast at the end of the trail to include Kentucky Fried Chicken, Dunkin' Donuts; sweets from 11 Main. AND the adulation of friends and neighbors who will line up to cheer the walkers on their way.

This year's Walkathon proceeds are earmarked to benefit Mental Health, specifically the new psychiatric in-patient unit which will occupy one complete floor of the proposed addition to Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Mickey Duncan, co-chairman of the event, urges walkers to dust off sneakers, sweatshirts, and sign in. Anyone who would like to be a walker or sponsor a walker may write to CPO Box 190, Kingston.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

WHEN YOU FEEL LIKE A HEEL, TRY THIS!

Dear Heloise: We love you, and by we, I'm including my husband and I'm not a bit jealous!

I have a good pair of shoes that only stared at me from the closet shelf every time I opened the door, because they were too large at the heels.

They kept slipping off my feet and forced me to walk with a shuffle.

Then the light flickered as I was cutting off the stretchy portion of a top of a pair of hose. I'm not talking about panty hose. I mean regular hose that cling, or the thigh-highs.

Bake and Rummage Sale Saturday April 27

10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Ashoken United Methodist Church Hall

I cut this stretchy portion in half and glued it to the inside heels of my shoes with plain ordinary white household glue.

Now I'm wearing my shoes, and with such pleasure.

Edna Carter
Everyone with narrow heels is going to love you, Edna.

Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

Your ideas have done much to guide me in finding the easier, more efficient way of getting things done.

I recall a sewing teacher I once had saying, "When you do something the easiest, most efficient way possible, you take the fight out of it."

And that is what your column does for homemaking—takes the fight out of it! Thanks a million.

Charlotte Johnson

Dear Heloise:

You may think this sounds rather strange but . . .

Instead of using a plain ordinary tray when serving someone (especially a child) sick in bed, I use a plastic dish pan. That's right, and I find the high, square kind is the best.

There's no worry about things slipping off the tray since the sides are high. They are easier to grip and sometimes lighter weight than the regular trays.

Besides if there is a spill, it can be washed out in a minute and no damage is done.

There are many ways to decorate the dishpan "tray." It is especially nice and attractive if spiffed up with adhesive-backed paper or even those slick-on plastic flowers.

A Reader

Dear Heloise: I would love to share my way of poaching eggs in "pot pie tins."

I do it in the electric skillet. First of all, I pour a small amount of water in the electric skillet — put a dab of butter in each pie tin and place in the skillet. Heat until butter is melted and then place one or two eggs in each tin . . . cover and cook to desired firmness.

The steam cooks the eggs beautifully.

A. Van Daley

Dear Heloise:

In the poll of the "Most Obnoxious" household chore, refrigerator defrosting won hands down because of drip pan spills.

A length of plastic tubing purchased in the aquarium section of the pet department solved this problem.

I put one end of the tubing into the drip pan accumulation, a slight sip to start the flow of water and the fluid transfer completes itself.

My tubing reaches the kitchen sink, but any large container will do as long as there is a downward flow.

Since a self-defrost refrigerator is beyond my budget, this makes a pretty good 50 cent substitute.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

Season's Closed On Alaska Husband Hunt

DEAR ABBY: A 45-year-old woman, looking for a husband, asked you where all the men were, and you told her to go to Alaska.

Please, Abby! We don't need any more women up here. The average age for a woman here is 27, and, except for the military, there aren't any spare men around. We have plenty of drifters, but they're very poor husband material.

Also, you said, "... and if you should get lucky, the nights are six months long." A lot of people didn't know you were kidding. You would have to go way up into the arctic circle to find darkness during the daytime.

Please, do us a favor and set the record straight, and don't send us any more women! Not to Anchorage anyway.

LIVES HERE

DEAR LIVES: For another discouraging word, read this letter from Fairbanks, Alaska.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't start another gold rush in Alaska. We have enough trouble with men (and even whole families) who come here looking for jobs on the Alaskan pipeline which hasn't even been started yet.

In the first place, nobody should come to Alaska unless he has a job assured him because unemployment in this state is 10.4 per cent — the highest in the nation. And furthermore, there's an Alaskan law giving job preference to Alaskans.

Another thing people don't know: The cost of living is high in Alaska. A bacon and egg breakfast in a good restaurant costs from $3 to $5, and a good steak dinner cost anywhere from $8 to $15. And if you're looking for cheap housing, forget it.

Abby, do a lot of people a big favor and print this.

YOUR FRIEND IN FAIRBANKS

DEAR FRIEND: That settles it. Don't any of you women go to Alaska in search of a husband, and don't any of you men go there unless you have a job in your pocket!

DEAR ABBY: Le Roy and I have been married for only a year, and already we're having problems. The biggest one is that he is crazy about country and western dancing and I've never even tried it. You have to have the right kind of clothes to dance country and western, and the boots alone cost $65. I don't want to spend that much money on something I might not like.

Le Roy says if I won't go with him, he'll go without me. And he does. I don't like the idea of him dancing and drinking with other girls while I sit home. I don't mind his going out with a bunch of guys, but not for doing things that involve other girls. He thinks I'm being unreasonable.

Do you think I should put my foot down on Le Roy for going dancing without me? And if so, how hard?

JUNE BUG

DEAR JUNE BUG: The place for your foot is not on Le Roy. It's in a Western Boot all set to learn how to dance Country and Western, and if you're smart, you'll love it.

DEAR ABBY: I work as a cashier at a well known chain grocery store, and my problem is the way people treat me. They act like it's my fault that prices are so high. They yell at me when I ring up items, and ask me how come canned corn went up four cents in one week. When they pay their money, they say: "Look at that! I used to be able to get three bags of groceries with a $20 bill!"

They don't realize that I only work there, and I have to buy groceries just like they do. And while I'm griping, I may as well mention those customers who wait till their order is totaled, and then ask to get a check cashed while customers are waiting in line behind them. Meanwhile the cashier gets the dirty looks from the other customers.

I used to love my work, but no longer! Please print this. I got it off my chest, and believe it or not, I feel better.

"SUNNY"

DEAR SUNNY: Consider it printed. Now ... smile!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions!"

Fashion and Beauty Tips

Short, casual, tennis-style dress with brief sleeves and V neck with a coordinated navy jacket — makes as formal an outfit as you would ever need.

Suits without the set look — jackets are solid knit jersey and their skirts are printed crepe or pin-stripe cotton. Gives you greater flexibility in mixing and matching outfits.

A basic part of skin care is easy to forget. Pinching and squeezing blemishes can lead to infections. Also, as you get older your skin is less resilient and may scar more easily.

Slip-on loafers with narrow metal buckles add something extra to his more casual slacks and sweater outfits.

NATIONAL YWCA WEEK—T. Robert Gallo, acting mayor of the City of Kingston, has designated the week of April 21-27 as National YWCA Week to honor the organization for its helpful contribution to the community and he urges all to support its work and objectives. Attending the recent sign-

YWCA Executives Attending Conference

The Professional Institute of American Management Associations is conducting a management briefing for 50 regional executives of the Young Women's Christian Association. The meeting, sponsored by the National Board of the YWCA as part of their training responsibilities, is being held at the Greymoor Ecumenical Center, Garrison, N.Y., this week. The program has been designed to deal with the practical and technical skills needed for effective management in the YWCA. Sessions will conclude on Thursday.

Domenico Fanelli, AMA vice president in charge of Contract Services, is heading the program. Pat Burns, program director for PI, has formed a training staff which includes Dr. Lois B. Hart, consultant in humanistic education (Mass); T. Frank Hardesty, communications expert, PAYCO American Corp. (Ohio) and James F. Kingsley, president, Educon Co. (Conn.).

Among the women representing the training staff of the YWCA are Mrs. Laurance Rockefeller, a member of the National YWCA Leadership Development staff; Mrs. Sara Huntington Catlin, YWCA National Board member and chairman of its Training Committee; Ms. Jimmie Woodward, director, Membership-Leadership Development unit, YWCA National Board and Mrs. Elisabeth Luce Moore, trustee of the YWCA National Board and a member of its Executive Management Development Project Committee.

The opening day of the briefing offered an overview of management and involved discussions of such topics as the YWCA philosophy, the women's movement and women as leaders. Succeeding sessions will emphasize management, planning, standards of performance, problem solving and decision making, and individual needs assessment and analysis. A highlight of the meeting will be a planning workshop in which each participant will identify and discuss her most pressing management problems.

A second YWCA management briefing has been scheduled for Kansas City, June 20-26.

The Professional Institute was created by AMA to provide customized management training to organizations not specifically identified with the business world.

Elizabeth Post: Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: What do you do with the spoon from a coffee mug or iced tea glass when no saucer is served under the mug or glass?

GERALDINE

Dear Geraldine: If a clean paper napkin is available, place that on the table and put the used spoon on it. If this fails, you may also est the tip of the spoon upside down on your dinner plate and lay the handle of the spoon on the table.

Dear Mrs. Post: Our younger son is getting married to a girl who hasn't any close female relatives or friends to be in the bridal party. So she chose our 12-year-old granddaughter to be her only attendant, and the best man is the 14-year-old brother of the bride-to-be, who is very happy she will have someone from her family in the bridal party. When our older son was married, his brother was his best man. In a way I can understand the girl's feeling, but I wonder if this is proper. They want a simple wedding.

Mrs. D. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: It is, of course, up to the couple to make the decisions about who they want as their attendants. However, it would have been better if your son had chosen his brother as best man, rather than the bride's young brother. The best man should be somewhat a contemporary of the groom, and since your son was his brother's best man, the latter will surely feel hurt at not being included. The bride's young brother could be an usher, to help seat the guests. There does not need to be an even number of male and female attendants. Since the bride has no one else close to her, it was sweet of her to ask your granddaughter to be her maid of honor, and there is no need for another girl as a bridesmaid.

Dear Mrs. Post: I do all

68th Anniversary For Rebekah Lodge

Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34 will observe its 68th anniversary on June 4. It was noted at its recent meeting held at Odd Fellows Temple. In observance of the 155th anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in North America, Noble Grand Hilda Van Etten read an article entitled, "How Odd Fellows Began." The secretary read an interesting letter from International Association of Rebekah Assemblies President Jennie Sue Pearson. The club welcomed back one of its members, Mildred Schuchardt, who had been vacationing in Florida for the winter. Past Noble Grand Josie Dederick has been recommended by Ulster District for the post of District Deputy President for the coming year.

Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge will sponsor a bus trip for the Grand Lodge Home Pilgrimage to be held at Ithaca on June 8. All reservations are to be made as soon as possible through Anna Minkler. Bus fare must accompany the reservation.

Members are reminded to bring the packages for the surprise package booth of Viva Davis for the Pilgrimage by May 7. The following committees were appointed for the Pilgrimage: Leola Whitaker, visiting; Mildred Schuchardt, vice grand and noble grand; Marie Gundersen and Hannah Lewis, refreshments.

It was announced that the club will hold its annual chicken barbecue again this year. Details will be announced at a later date.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by Theresa Taylor and Alice Herb.

Could this be the only fish your grandchild ever sees?

By the end of this century, the waters of our world may be lifeless. Since the beginning of this century, contaminating wastes dumped into our lakes, rivers and streams have increased 600%. Fish are dying. And the water we drink doesn't taste quite the same.

We have a very few years to reverse this ugly trend. It's a job for people. For people in government and major industry. For independent businessmen, like us. For individuals, like you. It's a job for all of us, for all people who enjoy the water and realize how much it means to life.

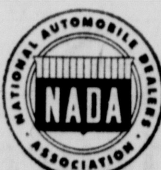

It requires so little effort. Simply never throw trash in the water or anywhere near it. Report major cases of water pollution to authorities. Always set an example for others.

Water without fish, smelling and clogged with litter, is the only alternative. We think that your grandchildren, and ours, deserve better.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, April 23

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Seek information required at a.m. about the details of some new outlets that could prove profitable. Contact an expert matters facing you carefully. Then the afternoon is fine for winding up a material undertaking of importance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do nothing in a.m. to jeopardize present security. Study future possibilities of a new plan and get it operating. A financial expert gives good suggestions. In TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't push personal aims in a.m., as they develop naturally later in the day. Enjoy with vivacious, good recreations with advancement and friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) don't be afraid of change. A letter received can bring happiness you've seen long wanting. Don't jeopardize security. Don't let others take advantage of you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get prepared for the future; make the right plans. Keep the appointments you have made. Shop early. Run errand for a good friend.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be a stickler for detail and will follow through on some well-organized labor. This holds true in recreational matters also. Banking and big business are fine here. Teach early to make decisions without deliberating overly long and this will be the key to success here. Plan early for the education and set up an insurance policy that will come in handy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A misunderstanding can occur in the a.m., but by p.m., all clears up. Use your pleasant manner to get rid of opposition. Cut down on smoking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Finish work early. Then get into the activities you really like. Don't overdo, or you can easily undermine health. Remember some important personal duty.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Day is best for work since you can have fun later with congenials. Buy a charming gift for mate. Say nothing controversial.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over with kin how to have more harmony, prosperity. Get rid of whatever is a stum-

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PUSHY? (Q.) My girl friend is getting pushier by the minute. In one of our classes she sits next to this boy. Every day she gets closer to him. I can tell he doesn't like it.

How can I tell her how bad it looks, and also, that he doesn't like it?—Disgusted in Oklahoma.

(A.) Are you sure the boy doesn't like it? Have you asked him? Has he told you? Let him tell her if he does not like what she is doing. Don't be a busybody. That is as bad as being pushy.

If you are jealous of the girl, either because of the boy or for some other reasons, or if you just don't like her, you do not have to continue as her friend. But do not interfere with her friendships with others.

TWO REACTIONS: (Q.) Sometimes Jennifer gives me the impression she wants me to talk to her, and other times she acts like she hates me. I would like to know how to deal with her. I want her to know I like her, whether she likes me or not.—Puzzled in New Jersey.

(A.) Jennifer may not be sure who she likes or what she wants. Many teenage girls and boys don't. This sometimes makes being friends with them difficult.

Be yourself with Jennifer. Be kind to her. Be friendly. Be patient if you can. Be as understanding as you can. In this way you will demonstrate to her that you like her and give her every opportunity to like you if she is able to.

Gas Prices May Go Up Again

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Energy administrator, Sawhill, that will lead the country to be a tendency for prices to go up," he said. "Unless Ralph Nader has a magic wand for dealing with the Arab countries that we don't have, I don't think we're going to see any drop in prices."

He said that when price controls were removed within a month or so, gasoline pump prices will increase from three to five cents a gallon.

Sawhill told the oil jobbers he would call utilities industry officials to a conference within 45 days "to review the whole system of rates structures and to urge them to encourage efficient energy use."

"We are all concerned about using our fuel efficiently, and I am just as worried as you are about the trend among home owners to switch from heating oil to natural gas or electricity," Sawhill said.

The Federal Energy Office chief said changing from oil heat to natural gas or electricity was "short sighted." He will warn against the change "in the most forceful way I can... I will make that appeal with increasing emphasis," he said.

We're Now Spending Like Mad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Economics textbooks say that during periods of high inflation people are supposed to stop spending, but most Americans apparently do not read economics textbooks.

Despite soaring inflation, people are still spending like mad — and economists are puzzled.

The spending runs counter to most theories of traditional economic behavior, which say people tend to stash away more cash in bank accounts or safe investments during times of economic uncertainty.

The release of the first quarter economic statistics last week, which showed inflation rising steadily and the gross national product (GNP) falling, should have produced a nation of misers. But the personal savings rate — the percentage of income that is deposited into financial institutions — actually dropped during the first three months of 1974.

"The consumer is not just sitting in his cave waiting... he is out spending," Sydney Jones, chief economist of the Department of Commerce, said.

Inflation itself could be feeding the retail surge. "Buy now," the theory goes, "because things will only get more expensive next year."

Income tax refunds, a windfall for many families this time of the year, may also prompt more spending.

The buying binge would be good news during a normal economic slump. Those extra dollars flowing into the economy would be just the thing to get business moving again.

But the current decline is unusual because it is coupled with extraordinarily high inflation and the escalating prices are negating the benefits of the consumer spending.

"The problem is that the rate of inflation is too intensive for the consumer to increase the quantity of his acquisitions," Jones said. "You have to get improvement on inflation so that consumers can spend more money on goods rather than just prices."

Rebuttal Testimony Continues

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government pressed to shore up its case against former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans with rebuttal testimony today in the final week of the first trial of former Cabinet members since the 1920s.

The first rebuttal witness was Richard B. Vine, director of the State Department's Office of Western European Affairs. He began his testimony late Friday, telling how he was attached to the U.S. embassy in Bern, Switzerland, on Nov. 30, 1971, when Mitchell, then attorney general, phoned about the jailing of Robert L. Vesco.

Vine said he told Mitchell that the international financier, now a fugitive in the Mitchell-Stans case, had been jailed on a felony charge, "disloyal management," brought by a shareholder of Investors Overseas Services, Ltd., which Vesco had taken over.

Vesco was released on $125,000 bail, and the charge was later dropped.

Mitchell and Stans are charged with trying to impede a federal investigation of Vesco's operations in exchange for his secret $200,000 cash contribution to the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign. The trial began its 10th week today.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Giagliardi told the jury of nine men and three women that testimony would be finished today even if it was necessary to go into a night session. Summations and the judge's charge to the jury were scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Stans's defense rested its case late Friday. Mitchell's attorney, Peter Fleming Jr., indicated he might have another witness or two, but this was not certain. Meanwhile the judge let the government get its rebuttal started.

FBI Mum on Hearst Story

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI would make no comment Sunday on a report that it had infiltrated a neighborhood where Patricia Hearst and her abductors, the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), were located.

An article in Newsweek Magazine said FBI agents, "posing as postmen, garbage collectors, delivery men and the like," had infiltrated and "knew the neighborhood, if not the house, where the gang was hiding."

It has been 77 days since Miss Hearst, 20, was carried away screaming from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment by the terrorist revolutionary group.

Miss Hearst was photographed accompanying SLA bank robbers last Monday, and FBI and local law enforcement agencies since have imposed a gag rule to prevent release of information which could prove prejudicial in the eventual prosecutions of SLA members.

A debate has ensued over whether Miss Hearst, daughter of San Francisco Examiner Editor Randolph A. Hearst, was involved directly in the heist of $10,690 from a San Francisco bank or whether she was forced to participate.

In the robbery photographs, taken by a bank camera, Miss Hearst was seen carrying an automatic carbine. She was charged only with being a material witness in a federal complaint issued nine hours after the bank holdup and wounding of two bystanders.

Meanwhile, police say they will give a lie detector test to a roommate of Miss Hearst's cousin, William Randolph Hearst II. The roommate, Van R. Bush, 31, claims he was kidnapped last Thursday by three gunmen who referred to him as "Billy," a reference to Hearst.

Bush said he was released three hours later when he convinced the men he was not Hearst by showing them his driver's license.

Police Inspector Ralph Brown said it was decided to give Bush the lie detector test because he was hazy about some details of the incident.

Death Toll Rises

BELFAST (UPI) — Inspector Herbert Norris reached for a piece of chalk to change the official death toll on the blackboard at police headquarters.

"It has reached four figures now," he said. "I wonder how many more."

Shortly after 3 p.m. Saturday, James Corbett, a 20-year-old Roman Catholic, became the 1000th person to die in nearly five years of Northern Irish violence.

His body was found dumped in a ditch on the outskirts of Belfast after being shot twice in the face.

Two men had called at his modest home in the new Barnsley housing project and driven him away in a blue minivan.

Police had no record of Corbett in their files, but said he appeared to be the victim of an Irish Republican Army (IRA) "execution squad" used to keep members in line.

At police headquarters, Corbett's death was recorded on a giant blackboard that keeps the grim tally of Northern Ireland's daily violence. The stark figures on the board showed a total of 693 civilians, 214 soldiers, 43 militiamen and 50 police killed in Northern Ireland violence since August, 1969.

In addition, a total of 3,957 bombs have smashed homes, offices, factories, bars and shopping centers, destroying jobs sorely needed in a land where unemployment has hit 47 per cent in some areas.

The statistics, however, did not show the suffering in the small, back-to-back homes of ghetto areas, the squalid battleground in the three-cornered struggle among the outlawed IRA, the British Army and Protestant extremists.
